Soon or Never.

The Ethiopian war has reached the "big effort" stage. Both sides have announced they are just the preliminary period and ready for a decisive climax of hostilities. The Italians have begun a "drive" to consolidate their position in northern Ethiopia. The Ethiopians, who so far have been staying out of reach, are believed ready to take a stand.

From the beginning of the war, it has been the prevailing opinion that the superior force and mobility of the Ethiopian troops would be used to good advantage when and if the highly mechanized Italian army was drawn far enough from its base of supplies to handicap it.

According to recent dispatches, circumstances are beginning to turn in favor of the Ethiopian strategy. The warriors of Emperor Haile Selassie must take a decisive stand soon or never. Otherwise, they may discover too late they have saved their strength for a battle in which the enemy doesn't want to participate. The Ethiopians, in that case, would be obliged to take the offensive against an entrenched Italian force, a type of warfare for which they are poorly prepared.

"Big efforts" are, therefore, in the line of probability. The Italians are whipping up their enthusiasm for a climactic drive which will establish their supremacy beyond doubt. The Ethiopians, on the other hand, seem finally to be in the position they have claimed to be most favorable to them. They have drawn the invaders far into their territory, where fighting, for the Italians, will be largely a matter of obtaining supplies over a long and difficult line of communication.

Just For Fun.

A crowd had gathered around a parked automobile. Its members were wondering about the meaning of three peculiar ornaments: a potato transfixed by an American flag, on the radiator cap; a plaster of paris pig with AAA on its sides and red paint indicating a slit throat, on the top; a sign "Gimme potatoes or gimme death," on the rear license plate.

Here was a humor mystery. An unpretentious appearing man finally came to drive away the car. Someone asked him why he displayed the potato, the pig and the sign on his automobile. Apparently, the best answer he could devise on the spur of the moment was, "Just for fun." Investigation by a newspaperman indicated, furthermore, that there was no other answer.

"The man is an inventor. He is independently wealthy. It struck him as 'deviltry' to adorn his automobile with a potato transfixed by a flag, a stuck plaster of paris pig and a sign about potatoes and death. Yet, no one who knows what has been happening—no one who knows what inspired the three strange devices—can doubt for a minute the fun is double edged. Still, it and other things like it are permitted.

Not in Germany are they permitted, nor in Italy, Russia or any of the small imitators of the great governments built on the doctrine of infallibility. But they can still happen in France, in England and in the United States, where it still seems a good idea to preserve to the people the right to ridicule the ruler, lest he forget he still is mortal. There is a very real possibility the presidential campaign of 1936 may be called the "pig and potato" campaign, simply because Americans still do some things "just for fun."

Tinkered To Death.

It would be interesting to hear from the silver boys at this time regarding collapse of the Chinese currency system. Apparently, it was a direct result of the silver buying policy of the Roosevelt administration, but the silver boys probably have a fancier explanation. They never admit they are wrong about anything.

China, according to their advertisements, was to be one of the principal beneficiaries of silver buying by the United States treasury. Chinese would be able to buy more foreign products. Chinese would be happier, along with all other people using silver as a monetary base. Happiest of all would be Americans, though no one yet has been able to discover why.

Time is a great teacher, however, and time has worn away most of the bunk which adorned the silver buying policy. The motive behind it, whatever the advertisements said, was to help the silver producers of the United States—the motive which has been behind most of the silver heretics of the last half century. That is not, of course, an entirely unworthy motive, but no one ever should make the mistake of confusing it with interest in the general welfare of the United States or of any other nation affected by it.

The silver minority, in its aggressive stupidity, has contributed to a currency collapse in China. It is contributing to confusion at home as well, added by the weakness of the Roosevelt administration in monetary principles. All that has been done can be traced to an "expert" somewhere along the line, but in monetary matters "expertise" and "unkering" mean the same thing. The silver policy, measured by results to date, is a ghastly failure. The Chinese currency system has been tinkered to death by crackpots who either didn't see or didn't want to see that their scheme of buying silver at an artificially high price would bring about a ruinous deflation in one of the most important countries using silver. Their explanation of the matter would be interesting reading, if they cared or dared to attempt an explanation.

Taken Down.

In the next few weeks experts of all degrees of expertise will tell the country exactly what Tuesday's election results mean. Obviously, one conclusion will be something like this:

The Democratic party, which was carried to supremacy on the wave of President Roosevelt's popularity, has been taken down somewhat by disagreement with various policies and attitudes associated with the new deal. Whatever delusions of grandeur and permanence the party may have had should be destroyed.

It will be said the new deal has been rebuffed. The Democratic party will be advised to check up on itself. The Republican party, which as recently as a year ago was believed to be in immediate danger of extinction, has strengthened its position. The two party system is being restored.

All these things are interesting and important. Experts, however, may neglect to emphasize one point. In 1920, the Republican party, which had been powerful since the end of the World war in all states where the two party system operated, learned it was not impracticable. In 1932 and 1934, Republicans were swept out of office with a vengeance.

Republicans should have learned something from their inglorious defeat. The Democrats who replaced them and who have been riding high, wide and handsome ever since should learn something from what happened to them in so many elections Tuesday. E. actly what they should learn is hard to determine, but it would seem to be something to the effect that citizens of the United States are looking for something neither party seems to have patented exclusively yet—something more solid and more palatable than the same old baloney in new disguises.

Salvage.

Reported discovery of the wrecked liner Lusitania off the Irish coast, where it sank May 7, 1915, is more gratifying to salvage operators than it is to the statesmen who have inherited the international issue it represented.

Salvage operators expect to hoist from the vessel's wreck millions of dollars' worth of valuables. Statesmen fear they may bring to the surface, also, bitter memories of submarine warfare, blockades and theoretical neutrality.

There is a possibility, also, that salvage operations might shed light on the delicate question of whether or not the Lusitania was carrying munitions. That is one of the points of the World war which has been clouded so long there seems no wisdom now in clearing it up.

The Lusitania, a British vessel, was carrying American passengers, who had ignored Germany's plain warning against taking passage on vessels flying flags of nations at war with Germany. It was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, which might never have sighted it had the ship's captain taken the precautions demanded by the peril of his vessel's position. Germany claimed the Lusitania carried munitions. Great Britain claimed it didn't. The dispute never was settled.

Indignation in the United States ran high, despite the weakness of the case against Germany. The sinking of the Lusitania and the loss of American lives hastened the decision of the United States to enter the war on the side of the Allies. Salvage operations will reopen the whole bitter issue for discussion. It might be better if the Lusitania were to remain hidden forever under the Atlantic's mountains of water.

Farewell to Warmth.

Weathermen hate to be skeptics, but that is, after all, the safest attitude. It's more pleasant to be surprised by nice weather after a prediction of bad weather than it is to be disappointed by a sleek storm after a forecast of "Fair and warmer."

So weathermen persistently are predicting the very worst these days. Nov. 4 was the warmest on record in the state; the forecast for Nov. 3 was "rain and much colder." As it proved the merit of gloom, election day was thoroughly nasty.

There is no use hoping for any more freakishly decent weather in November, the forecasters are growling. From now on, it will be the part of wisdom to expect the worst and to view any decent, warm days as a surprising departure from what should be.

A farewell to warmth, then. Clean out the ashtrays, fill up the coal bins and don't cease firing until the weathermen begin to croak doleful warnings about late frosts the latter part of next May. Sooner or later there must be an end to summer days in November, so let's have it now.

New York Day by Day

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—Every large city has them, but none are as plentiful as in New York—the hired lobby cadgers. Savvy, easy-going, well dressed, they never cross the line that separates the polite pickings of their trade from barehanded flim-flamming.

Several hundred are able to live comfortably through the sheer cordiality of their contacts with the lonely strangers to town and without facing the danger of arrest. They are adept in striking up an acquaintance that leads to an invitation to drink.

And once this progress is made they have little difficulty in so ingratiating themselves that a small loan is seldom refused. Sometimes a fiver or tenner and never more than a twenty. They have percentage arrangements with bars and cabarets to which they pilot visitors.

The truth is that many are agreeable fellows who really know the city. House detectives tolerate them. Usually the approach is to ask for a light. I am told they are mostly without police records, often married and with families. O. Henry's gentle grafter.

Baldness is an affliction that has cut short a number of stage ambitions. At least it has sent juveniles into other roles. The proximity of the audience permits no drastic disguises. But the screen has unholiness in terror. Some of the appealing portents of Baldness as well as swash-buckling roles are pretty near baldness. Such as Pat O'Brien, Fred Astaire, Bing Crosby, Gladys Blackmer, Edmund Brown, Tom Mix and Conrad Nagel. All wear loopers on duty. I love this. I'm on the edge of being in the market for a "man-moose" myself.

I have wondered if gracefulness toward the public is an actual box-office asset. Certainly no one is more diffident to the proletariat than Garbo. Yet she's the most highly paid. Constance Bennett is certainly not dripping sweetness and light for her public. And Richard Mansfield was insufferable in contact with everybody. Maud Adams was also a shunner, even with interviewers most players court. Chaplin is graceful enough, but thoroughly independent. It would seem if one has enormous histrionic talent, there is little need for obsequious toward paying customers.

The horse is having at least a slight vogue again. On reasonable and crisp afternoons in Central park there are often a dozen fancy vehicular turn-outs drawn by smartly coiffed and harnessed steppers—sometimes spanking bays, a Stanhope pulled tandem, the single trotters and pacers hitched to spindly pneumatic tired carriages and two-seater. Owners, flittingly attired, drive while uniformed coachmen sit, stutted, beside them. One turnout with a matronly Mary-Boland-looking driver was an arrangement in black and white. Black trotter, white lines and bridle, black runabout with white wheel spokes and a snow-white rug.

This is a topic for a triple-jointed essay by Emily Post, Lucius Beebe and Cholly Knickerbocker. That is the spread of gum-chewing among the crumple-wrapped ladies in public—especially at first nights. It was particularly stressed at the notable premiere of "Jubilee," high spot of such goings on to date. Four women, whose names grace the social register, were unabashedly among the jaw-waggers. Some say the indulgence is to stifle a cigarette craving. It's difficult these days for ladies to sit through an entire act without a few inhalations. At the Colony recently I saw gum passed around as casually as toothpicks in a country hotel.

Thingumabobs: Joan Crawford and Franchot Tombs had the privilege of a private elevator when autograph packs got too close at the Waldorf. Dashiell Humphreys gets much of his dialogue material around owl lunch-wagons. Grover Whalen is a 6 ft. 4 in. ringer. Morton Downey, on evenings off, sings bridge songs for friends. Tad, the cartoonist, advised Ring Lardner, writing more than that of any other contemporary. (Copyright, 1935, McNaught Syndicate)

Glancing Backward

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Nov. 7, 1925.

Marion heroes were already beginning to stock up with Christmas merchandise.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Mayer of Cherry street, left for a visit to friends in Elvira and Cleveland.

Rev. John P. Currin of Jacksonville, Fla., former pastor of Trinity Baptist church, was visiting friends here.

Abraham Martin, 60, of Mount street, claimed to be the champion walker of Marion county, and posted a $5 wager that he could beat any man in the county in a walking race from the Hocking Valley crossing on Bellefontaine avenue to the courthouse.

Mrs. Roy W. Haubel, secretary of the Marion County Council of Religious Education, said that work of making a religious census of Marion county was nearing completion.

Harding high school and Mansfield high school football teams played a 0 to 0 tie. Shelby was leading in the NCO standing with two games won, and one tie.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Nov. 7, 1915.

Mrs. Samuel Gordon, 55, died at her home near Edison.

Dr. D. F. Reading, superintendent of the Delaware district of the M. E. church, occupied the pulpit at Epworth M. E. church, preaching on the subject, "Winning Souls."

James H. Leonard, 73, president of the LaRue Telephone Co. and vice president of the LaRue Bank Co., died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. J. W. Keys, in Spoken, Wash.

Mrs. Samuel Cronawap entertained at dinner at her home on West Columbia street in honor of her birthday anniversary of her daughter, Leona.

Neighborhood History

FIRST NEVADA SCHOOL

For some time after the town of Nevada in Wyandot county was surveyed, the school-going population was so small as to render a special sub-district inexpedient, and the youth of the village attended the district school one mile south of town.

The first building was erected in the northeast part of town in 1866 at a cost of $500. It was a frame structure and was in constant use up to the time of the completion of a new brick building in 1876.

On April 5, 1875, it was found by tax the sum of $500 for erection of a new school house. When it was found this was insufficient to carry on the work, a tax of $4000 more was voted on April 23, 1876. The work was completed in the same year.

Behind The News In Washington and Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The significant background story of the New York election is that, unlike Rhode Island, it was conducted under the best possible technical conditions for the new deal.

The Democratic organization in this state is in better shape than it ever has been in history. It has good city machines upstate where none existed before. The Republican organization is split more ways than a cat's paw. It has been especially unpropitious upstate, where eight of the nine new Republican assembly seats were gained.

Astute non-partisan politicians here originally call the result "a normal upset." What they mean is that in off years the parties in power usually are expected to suffer; that the appointment of the legislature favors the normally Republican regions upstate.

Republicans logically are calling the result a repudiation of the new deal; Democrats have found good allies in the popular vote. That debate may not be settled until next November, but it is giving new dealers far more to think about than their public statements may indicate.

The only real surprise to Jim Farley's insiders was the Philadelphia majority result. They had heard from Senator Guffey and others that they had a real chance to offset the publicity effects of the expected New York setback. They put every effort into it.

Students of trends will go into the majority results more than the others. These results in New York state, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New England indicate that the national Democratic organization has lost the cooperation of dominant local powers for the presidential election next year. That is a practical blow at the base of the machine which cannot be offset.

Even if the new deal victory stands in Kentucky, you may expect the results to have a sedative effect on politics in Washington. What makes the bulls and hyenas so happy in Wall Street these days is that public money is coming in. They have not seen any such long-green fodder in four years or more.

To enjoy the extent of it, they look at the brokers' loans figures. While stock values increased $2,500,000,000 during October, loans increased only $11,000,000. There may be many technical explanations for this, but one is that people bought stocks with cash last month. As few speculators here about use cash until apprehended, the conclusion may be justifiable that the country is getting back to its old pastime of picking levelers.

Savings banks have cut interest rates to 2 per cent. Bond yields figure only about 3 per cent. Generally, new tax regulations make it inadvisable to sell stocks for quick profits. Consequently, the zoological experts are trusting that the fodder will continue plentifully (off and on) for the winter.

Bulls It is rather freely admitted among men in the street that some stocks are high on a basis of expected earnings next year. Also that inflationary expectations have been somewhat overplayed so far as the immediate future is concerned.

It is likewise true that the call money rate recently was trebled from the infinitesimal figure of 1 of 1 per cent, although that appears to have been an academic move, as there is little or no demand.

These bulls in the trough are not considered seriously, however. What all the animals have their eyes on are reports from the Federal Reserve board indicating that the board is varying increasingly about excess bank reserves (now around $2,000,000,000).

JR. C. OF C. TO OPEN SEASON WITH DANCE

Plans Nearly Completed For Affair To Be Held Saturday Night

Arrangements for the opening winter dance to be given by the Junior Chamber of Commerce Saturday night were nearly completed today, with the signing of Paul Wheeler and his orchestra to play in the hall. This was announced following a meeting of the Junior Chamber's dance committee last night.

The dance which is open to the public will be held at the Elks lodge hall and will get under way at 9 o'clock. Members of the arrangements committee said today that other clubs and organizations in the city have responded with a request to join with the Junior Chamber in making the dance a citywide event and have pledged their cooperation. It is hoped the opening dance will become an annual event to usher in the winter social season in Marion.

The dance committee composed of Charles Kellough, chairman, Welcome Cahn and George Stafford has arranged a novel system of decorations for the Elks hall and confetti and streamers will be provided for the dancers.

In an effort to promote a get acquainted with your neighbor idea the dance has been thrown open to the public. Tickets may be obtained from members of the Junior Chamber or one of the members of the dance committee.

JO'NEE MEETS LUPE AT NEW YORK PIER

By The Associated Press
NEW YORK Nov. 5.—Jo'nee met Lupe at the boat today and every thing looked fine in the Weissmuller household at least for the present.

Jo'nee (she calls him that) bounded off the coast guard cutter at quarantine and raced up to the deck square in the arms of his Pepper hot bride.

Jo'nee Jo'nee Jo'nee was the general import of the velvet gowning. They clinched again on a deck while Lupe squealed some more and then they clinched on a deck for the cameras in the accepted Hollywood fadous fashion. Lupe was altogether breathless. Jo'nee just stood there and grinned.

FLUSH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. If you have trouble with too frequent urination, burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes may need flushing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of kidney trouble, loss of sleep and nervousness, getting up at night, swelling, redness under the eyes and general weakness.

It takes only 3 pints a day and so get rid of more than 3 pints of waste, poisonous matter, causing serious trouble. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS, which have been used successfully by millions of people for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help to flush out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. Get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist.

The Stars Say—

For Friday, Nov. 8

A DAY in which all seems to depend on personal initiative and wisdom is read from the prevailing lunar figure. Things are likely to run in routine grooves. But in all be careful with the finances and wary about investments and money transactions of every character. A depressed physical condition may warp the ambitions anyhow.

Those whose birthday it is are not likely to find it a year of great activity or adventure, according to the planetary omens, but this should not curb any ambitions or aspirations of dominant personal urge. Refrain from financial hazards, both in expenditure and investments.

A child born on this day may have some latent ambitions and aspirations, which it may be not too eager to give expression. It may not be particularly fortunate in financial affairs.

DELAWARE CO. FARM HOUSE DESTROYED

Ernest Hawkins Family Routed by Flames.

Special to The Star
DELAWARE, O., Nov. 7.—The eight-room frame house on the C. C. Dunlap farm in Troy township, occupied by the Ernest Hawkins family, was destroyed by fire Tuesday night. The loss was estimated at approximately $2,500. There was $1,400 insurance on the home but no insurance on the furnishings.

Investigation of an odor of smoke revealed an upstairs room enveloped in flames. The fire spread too rapidly to permit saving more than a few pieces of furniture. A furniture mover for the Hawkins family will be given by friends Thursday and Friday nights at the John Davis farm.

MRS. ANNA PERITO DIES AT BUCYRUS

Special to The Star
BUCYRUS, Nov. 7.—Mrs. Anna Perito, 57, native of Italy and resident of Bucyrus for 26 years, died at her home here Tuesday night following an illness of five months. Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9 a. m. at Holy Trinity Catholic church. Burial will be in the Catholic cemetery. Surviving is the husband John Perito, one brother Joe Augustine and four children, Joseph and Santo of Bucyrus, Matthew of Crestline and Samuel of New York.

Tickets Go On Sale for Band Benefit Grid Game

Tickets went on sale today for the Harding-Bucyrus football game Nov. 16 in the new stadium, proceeds of which will go towards the purchase of new uniforms for the Harding High school band.

The present uniforms have been worn for the last four years, and when they were purchased had been used for a corresponding period by the Ohio Wesleyan band. There are only 40 of the uniforms in a presentable stage and these are beyond rejuvenation either by dry-cleaning or repairing, according to school officials.

It is the desire of school officials and L. G. Jones, music supervisor in particular, that the band present a "snappy" appearance next year, and that there be at least 60 uniforms available for the increased band membership which he expects.

New uniforms purchased will provide teachers for the girls as well as the boys, to give the band a regulation appearance and conform to the new mode of outfitting both high school and college bands.

Tickets will sell for 50 cents per person and will give the purchaser the privilege of reserving a seat at no extra cost. They will be available from all high school pupils and at up-town stores, the names of which will be announced within a few days.

The faculty committee in charge of the ticket sale is composed of D. N. Bohrer, chairman, Miss Edith Brown, Miss Marion Conley, Miss Margery Eymon, Miss Lucille Foreman, J. H. Smith, Miss Mabel Turley, A. F. Lantier and Mr. Jones.

One thousand tickets have been printed, and officials anticipate a record-breaking attendance at the game, which will be the first game played by Harding in the new stadium since the dedication, and the last game of the season for Harding.

The campaign started this morning in assemblies held in west and east halls of the high school. Selections were played by the band and talks urging support of the game were given by the class officers who are the following:

FIVE NAMES ADDED TO JURY LIST HERE

The names of five persons have been added to the petit jury panel for the second three weeks of the September term, Everett H. Grimsby, clerk of courts, announced today. They will report Nov. 12.

The additional names have been added to replace those who have been excused from jury service for various reasons. Names drawn are Catherine McDonald of 497 Silver street, George Minard of 325 Sunnyside street, Fred S. Morris of 369 Duluth avenue, Mary Jensen of 801 Bennett street, and Emma Toebum of 190 West Church street.

Resembling a bathing cap, a rubber cover has been invented for milk bottle tops.

Mild and yet they Satisfy
—how do you do that?

Well, to start with, we take tobacco from our own Southland—mild ripe tobacco with lots of natural flavor but no harshness or bitterness.

THEN AS A SECOND STEP—

We blend this home-grown tobacco with spicy, aromatic Turkish tobaccos from across the seas. These Turkish tobaccos, you may know, have a flavor and fragrance entirely different from our own.

AS A THIRD STEP—

These tobaccos are cross-blended—welded together—the best way we've found to get a more pleasing flavor and a better taste in a cigarette.

Pythian Sisters of District No. 8 Are Guests of Marion Temple.

Officers from lodges in District No. 8, Pythian Sisters, took part in the exemplification of the ritualistic work at yesterday afternoon's session of the thirty-sixth annual convention here. Members of Marion Temple No. 381 were hostesses to more than 220 women at the one day meeting held in Marion Lodge No. 402 hall. The work was judged by Mrs. Bertha Klier of Westerville, grand chief.

Taking part in the work were Mrs. Donna Smith of Kenton, who filled the office of grand chief, Mrs. Elsie Link of Milbourne, most excellent chief, Mrs. Mollie Harmon of Marion, excellent sealer, Mrs. Minnie Quick of Marion, excellent junior, Mrs. Flo Decker of Essex, manager, Mrs. Lena Griffith of Prospect, mistress of records and correspondence, Mrs. Faus Holly of Marion, mistress of finances, Mrs. Nellie Cloud of Bellefontaine, protector, Mrs. Vinnie Sealander of Waldo, outer guard.

Members of Zenth Temple No. 141 of LaRue, continued in new regalia, conducted the degree work and the work of draping the character exemplified by the Prospect temple.

The meeting yesterday was in charge of Mrs. Charlotte D. Rush, district deputy grand chief. Mrs. Ruth, Mrs. Klier and Miss Stella

Smith and Mrs. Esale Thompson, past district deputy grand chiefs, were presented gifts from the hostess temple.

The visitors were entertained with a program last night. Mrs. Pauline McClellan, accompanied at the piano by Miss Mildred Duffley, sang several numbers and Phyllis Tierney entertained with tap dances, accompanied by Miss Marilyn Meeks. Fred White contributed a Negro character sketch and a drama of Columbus.

Arrangements for the convention were in charge of the following: Mrs. Goldie Miller, Mrs. Ella Welles, Mrs. Mattie Peters, Mrs. Esale Thompson, Mrs. Ida Brewer, Mrs. Laura Smith, Mrs. Minnie Quick, Mrs. Ruth Flinch, Mrs. Merle Tongue, Mrs. Helen Baumgardner, Mrs. Beas Peoples and Mrs. Elizabeth Campbell.

MISS MILDRED DEAN WYANDOT HOSTESS

Special in The Star
WYANDOT, Nov. 7.—Miss Mildred Dean entertained a group of friends at a winter soiree at her home Saturday. The guests were Mrs. and Mrs. Loten Ford of Bury, Mrs. and Mrs. Frank Furness of Marion, Margaret Painter of Marion, Thurman, Camilla, and Lavonna Painter of Marion, Robert and Dean Baker, Valrie Ulmer of Chaffield, Wanda Shrove of Monmouth, and Lucile Jury.

The annual Parent, Son and Daughter banquet was held at the Mt. Zion High school Friday. Toastmasters for the occasion were Miss Helen Shafstall. The speaker for the evening was Supl. Whaley.

The Willing Workers class of the Baptist church was entertained Friday by Harold, Gerald and Hubert Sheaffer at their home. Games and contests were enjoyed and were followed by a lunch served by Mrs. Charles Sheaffer. The guests were Donna Ruth, Evonda and Keith Gebaugh of Little Sandusky, Nolan Eaton of near Nevada, Gwendolyn Sheaffer of Sulphur Springs.

'BILLY' SUNDAY DIES AT RELATIVE'S HOME

other children of the evangelist died two years ago. A brother, H. E. Sunday, of North Dakota and Hood River, Ore., also survived.

Sunday's body lay, meantime, in the second floor bedroom of the rambling frame house where he died.

Converts Fewer in Later Years

Copyright, 1935, International News Service
Rev. William Ashby Sunday died Sunday by family troubles and assisted by a postwar reluctance of the American people to become his "converts," but in the days before the war he was a power in America and he was one of the forces which brought about national prohibition.

His series of amazing revival meetings reached its peak early in 1917 when he at last descended on New York, "the past-hole of iniquity," which he had always compared with Sodom and Gomorrah.

John D. Rockefeller Jr. had put up the money for an enormous tabernacle on Washington Heights where the great Presbyterian Medical center now stands. Billy addressed hundreds of thousands there and 65,000 persons came forward to pledge themselves to a new life in the church.

Bold Liberty Bonds
A few days after he closed the meetings America declared war on Germany and a new hysteria swept the country. Billy aided in the sale of liberty bonds. After the war he renewed his meetings around the country (he continued right up until with the same response.

It was about 1914 that the nation realized a new force was in its midst but Billy had then been evangelizing for almost 20 years. He was attacked by denominational leaders, who called his "vulgarity" which amounted to nothing more than using the vernacular in the pulpit.

Others arose in his defense. The head of one of the largest theological schools in the east recently said that he began his career in the church when Billy converted him and former Sen. Henry Allen of Kansas dated his "conversion" to Billy's Wichita revival in 1911.

Built Tabernacles
Cities vied with one another in obtaining this miracle worker with the crowds. Before he would come each city had to build a great tabernacle of pine "boards" seating thousands. Sometimes they were constructed on the ball fields on which he used to play as a professional for the old Chicago White Stockings of the National League.

"Brighten the Corner Where You Are." Billy's theme song plugged by the stentorian baritone of the full-voiced Homer Rodeheaver, trombone player extraordinary, became one of the popular numbers of the day and to Billy's distress was even played by the new dance orchestras. "Hitting the Revival Trail" was added to the American language.

After Rodeheaver's great choir which traveled with him had added "The Brewer's Big Horns" Billy would open up. He soon would strip off his coat and even his vest as he warmed up in his attack on the saloonkeepers and the hypocrites. He would leap about the platform and go down on one knee with clenched fist outstretched. Furniture was smashed for emphasis.

Called Upon God
He would address God in his homely language asking "how Chicago are up there and how's the infant Jesus," and pleaded with Him for the sinners of the city.

There was a dishpan for every row of seats. It was passed from hand to hand and sometimes in less than five minutes he had collected more than $5,000. His 13 weeks in New York brought a total of $350,000.

Then came the most amazing part of his meetings. When he asked for converts, the procession

"up the sawdust trail" began. A moved forward to shake his hand a large part of the audience always as a pledge that they were joining a church and determined to lead the good life. Church attendance always increased in cities where he preached and men went back to the surrounding towns to organize Bible classes and carry on. After each talk Billy was drenched with "sweat." A former baseball trainer would give him a rub down.

Rallies Dry Forces
Billy preached in Denver and Colorado shortly afterwards voted dry. He had meetings in Detroit and the state passed a prohibition law.

One Sunday, in Chicago with some of his baseball team mates and visiting New York Giants he stumbled out of a saloon and stopped at a revival meeting of the Pacific Garden Mission in an open lot. It was the turning point in Billy's career, he said. He became converted. The other players, as he used to tell it, died drunkards' deaths.

After his conversion he found that Pop Anson had snatched him as fastest base runner of the team against a St. Louis player for a 100-yard dash and had set $1,000 on him. Billy begged Pop to let him out of it. He finally went through with it and won the race, returning to the church immediately to confess what he considered the one transgression of his religious career.

Married "Ma" in 1888
In 1888 he married Helen Thompson of Chicago, the "Ma" Sunday who managed his evangelistic career. (He always declared he never made a decision without her approval.) His first job after giving up his $400 a month job playing ball was as a Y. M. C. A. secretary at $28. He began his evangelizing at Garner, Ia., in 1896, and in 1903 he was ordained in the Presbyterian ministry in Chicago.

He conducted his first meetings under a big tent. Unlucky snow once flattened his auditorium. The church people of Perry, Ia., built him a rough board tabernacle at the cost of $750. That gave him an idea. Later when in great demand, he insisted on the construction of such an edifice before he would come to a city.

After 1914 he was recognized as the evangelist with the greatest drawing power since Dwight Moody. He preached to far more persons than Moody ever did, however. Billy, himself in his "Who's Who" autobiography placed it at 80,000,000. He also listed himself as "credited with being the greatest single influence in arousing sentiment which resulted in the overthrow of the saloon in the United States."

Sticks to U. S.
Unlike Moody, he refused all offers to go to England. When his operations moved eastward in 1910 and 1916, his meetings in Philadelphia appeared to have made converts of the entire Protestant population of the city. But his Boston meetings were a disappointment to him. Complaints of his "vulgarity" had created antipathy in the city of learning. Then came the death of a daughter. His son George apparently committed suicide by leaping from a San Francisco hotel room. His favorite son, William, Jr., was divorced three times. Billy was not embittered by life. He was sweet and hopeful until the end.

His last days were spent (between revival meetings) at his place at Winona Lake, Ind., where he conducted large summer Bible schools and at his ranch on the Hood River, Ore.

Repentance added him also. He looked for the return of prohibition "within 10 years." Perhaps the thing that saddened him most was the unresponsiveness of his later audiences. In his last meetings in New York, converts averaged 18 a night, Billy admitted.

"That's very good for these days," said Ma Sunday, who was present at the interview. "It's not only New York. You know the tide doesn't flow anymore, not for anybody, anywhere."

comfort in the involved area. Cough may be present. Breathing is difficult and pain is increased by deep breathing, coughing or sudden change of position.

There are various forms of pleurisy. Some are known as "dry," and others, "wet" pleurisy. In the dry type the inflammation is localized and no fluid is present. The pain is most severe.

In wet pleurisy the fluid accumulates. The secretion of fluid lessens the pain, but if there is an excessive quantity of fluid it may seriously interfere with the movements of the lungs.

Sometimes it is necessary to tap the pleura and drain away the fluid. When the infection is persistent in its nature and a great deal of pus accumulates, it may be necessary to make a more radical operation to remove the pus.

Pleurisy.

LET ME give you another timely warning against the pitfalls of the winter months. There is always danger in overfatigue, wet feet, chilling and undernourishment, but the danger is greater in cold weather. Failure to guard against seasonal changes leads to colds, influenza, pneumonia and other of the so-called respiratory diseases.

Today, I want to tell you about pleurisy. This often follows neglect of the common cold and failure to guard against or to treat infections of the upper air passages.

Pleurisy, as its name indicates, is an inflammation of the pleura, the thin membrane, lining the chest cavity. There are two layers of this membrane. One part covers the inside of the bony framework of the chest. The other covers the lungs which are suspended in the chest cavity.

A fluid lubricates the pleura, so that the lungs can expand and relax without any difficulty. The delicately-covered lungs slide over the inside of the chest wall without the slightest friction. This is not the case if the pleural tissue becomes inflamed.

Germs may reach the pleura from an infection in the nose, nasal sinuses, throat, tonsils, teeth or bronchial tubes. These germs get into the blood stream and are carried to various parts of the body, including the pleura.

Pleurisy is more common in young children than in adults, and seems to affect boys more than girls. It may involve both sides of the chest but usually is confined to one side.

As a rule the disease is ushered in without warning. The victim complains of sharp pain and dis-

The question of whether LaRue villages will sponsor a municipal center was settled by voters in Tuesday's election. The bond isa vote of 249 to 84. The bonds are to be retired by a levy of 2.25 years with the interest rate at four and one-half per cent.

Construction of the municipal center is one of the 76 PWA projearly in September. It is planned to purchase the old opera house at a cost of $3,500. The building is expected to be reconstructed and local funds the latter contribution running approximately $6,

500 to be paid for the building makes up the $9,500 to be raised by the bond issue. The amount the government will contribute provided the project is carried through has not yet been determined.

According to present plans for the municipal building the first floor will include an auditorium seating 300 persons comfort sta-

THE STAR, MARION, OHIO, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 11, 1932

Social Affairs

THE women of the faculty of the Pleasant Township school and wives of the men teachers gave a dinner party and miscellaneous shower last evening for Miss Ula McNamara, a former faculty member whose marriage to Ralph M. Waits of Cincinnati will take place Saturday, Nov. 18. Closed church will be observed for the ceremony.

A miniature bride party marked Miss McNamara's place at dinner at Ringer's inn on the Prospect road.

After dinner the evening was spent at the Milford Schmidt home on Pearl street. The presentation of gifts to Miss McNamara was followed by an evening of cards.

Present were Miss McNamara, her mother, Mrs. J. G. McNamara, Mrs. Ota Lantier, Mrs. Hazel Walker, Mrs. B. A. Moore, Mrs. Herbert Goeddel, Mrs. Milford Schmidt, Mrs. Emerson Deitch, Miss Mary Wright, Miss Leona May and Miss Mildred Schulte.

THE naming of Mrs. Francis B. Huber as committee chairman launched plans for the annual holiday dance given by the Woman's Board of the Marion City hospital, at a meeting of the board yesterday, at the home of Mrs. Earle P. Wilson, of Bellefontaine avenue.

Associate hostesses were Mrs. Howard R. Bliot and Mrs. H. H. Hardy.

Mrs. Huber will name her committee and plans for the dance will be worked out at an early date.

The business session followed a luncheon. A meeting Nov. 20 will be at Hotel Harding with Mrs. Huber, Mrs. Harold K. Mouser and Mrs. David W. Evans as hostesses.

Employee Meet
The women employees of the traffic and plant department of the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. were entertained at a spaghetti supper last evening at the home of Mrs. Elsie Evans of 550 Oak street. The time after supper was spent socially. Present were Mrs. William Griffith, Mrs. Hazel Augenstein, Mrs. Flossie Irey, Mrs. Edna Kira, Mrs. Rosa Zeig, Mrs. Esther Keen, Mrs. Elsie Bether Stafford, Mrs. Dorothy Fetter, Miss Margaret Lardner and the hostess.

For Bad Winter Coughs, Mix This Remedy Yourself
Save Good Money! No Cooking!
If you want the best cough remedy that money can buy, mix it at home. It costs very little, yet it's the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of distressing coughs, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any drug can supply you with 25¢ quinine of Fluor. Pour this into a pint bottle, and add granulated sugar syrup to make a full pint. To make syrup, use 5 cups of sugar and one cup of water, and stir a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed. It's no trouble at all, and gives you four times as much cough medicine for your money—a real family supply. Keeps perfectly and tastes fine.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, helps clear the air passages, and thus ends a bad cough in a hurry.

Plus is a compound of Norway Pine in concentrated form, famous for its effect in stopping coughs quickly. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

Harding, Shelby Ready To Close N. C. O. Grid Season

COACH GIVES MARION EVEN CHANCE TO WIN IN FRIDAY CONTEST

Only Other League Game of Week Matches Gallion and Mt. Vernon.

Coach Carl Cramer today gave his Harding High football team an even chance for victory in its game with the strong Shelby team Friday night, in the game which will end this season's North Central Ohio league competition for both teams.

"Renewed fighting spirit after our defeat at Ashland last week, gives me reason to believe that the Harding team has an even chance for victory in its game with Shelby," Coach Cramer said. "The team displayed speed and power in the practice at the stadium last night and the Presidents will be trying hard for a victory in their last conference game." Cramer added.

Harding followers, however, are still a bit worried about the outcome of the contest in view of the impressive record Shelby has made during this season. The Shelby Whippets have played a total of eight games to date and have won five and lost three. The Richmond county team holds undisputed third place in the North Central Ohio conference with a percentage of .500.

Players themselves had little comment to make concerning the actual outcome of the game, but all were unanimous in that statement that they would be plugging hard for an N. C. O. victory.

Backfield Men Confer

Coach Cramer is not overlooking any possibility in grooming the players for the game which will be played under the lights at W. W. Skiles athletic field in Shelby. "Huddles" for the backfield men were held both Tuesday and Wednesday nights following the regular practice at the stadium. The players met with the head coach to discuss various offensive plays which will be used in their game tomorrow.

President plans indicate that about 25 men will make the Shelby trip. The team is to leave Marion on a chartered coach at 4:45 p. m. Friday.

Lineup Uncertain

Changes in the variety lineup during scrimmages leaves the starting players in doubt. In the backfield, Frazier and Peacock will probably get starting calls. On the line, Ruby, Carhart, Reiter, and Duffy seem to be among the group which will be in action at the opening kick-off.

Reports from Shelby indicate that the majority of its first string players are ready for action. The present outlook would indicate that practically the same starting lineup used against Mansfield last week will be on deck when the Marion-Shelby game opens.

The Mansfield Tigers defeated the Whippets last week by a 32 to 24 score. With less than three minutes to play Nick Weber, Tiger captain, swept around his own right end, under perfect interference, to score a 29-yard touchdown which won the game.

Earlier in the game Shelby successfully executed the "sleeper" play. Anderson went to the sidelines and when the play was called

THREE BIG GRID CLASHES SATURDAY

Three gridiron clashes head the national football schedule for Saturday. Some of the outstanding players to take part in them are pictured above. When Northwestern journeys to South Bend, Ind., to attempt to stop Notre Dame's victory march,

Wally Cruise, star halfback of the Wildcats, and Bill Shakespeare, passing fullback of the Irish, will be spearheads of their teams' offense. Ken Cotton, halfback for unbeaten University of California, and Elmer Legg, quarterback for Wash-ton, loom as star performers when their eleven meets at Berkeley, Calif. Results of the Minnesota-Iowa clash at Iowa City should be determined in a great measure by the performance of One Simmons, sensational Iowa half, and Sheldon Beise, Minnesota fullback.

Three Nearby High School Teams Close Grid Season This Week

On the home stretch of their 1936 football season, district teams are expected to present several very interesting and exciting football battles this week-end. Three of the five contests being held this week are final games for the contestants.

Hard threw him a 15-yard pass. Anderson ran 50 yards to score without being touched by opposing players.

Statistics of the game show that Shelby tried three passes and completed two for a gain of 67 yards. The Whippets averaged 47 yards on three punts, and gained a total distance of 378 yards as compared to the 400 yards gained by Mansfield.

One More Game Although the game Friday night will be Harding's last N. C. O. contest this year, it is not the final game of the season. Bucyrus High has been scheduled to play here at the Harding stadium on Nov. 18, in a hand benefit game. The entire proceeds from the ticket sale will be placed in a fund for the purpose of purchasing new hand uniforms.

Only one other North Central Ohio conference game is to be played this week. The Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets will invade Gallion Saturday. Because of recent victories the Gallion team is favored to win over the Mt. Vernon squad. Should Gallion win the contest its league standing would be increased from 333 to 500. Mt. Vernon, newcomers to the league, have failed to win a conference game in two attempts.

The Mansfield Tigers will be playing out of the league when they entertain the strong Dover Crimson team Saturday. Ashland has no game booked for this week-end but will be host to the Wooster High team on Nov. 11.

Probable lineups for the game Friday night at Shelby are:

HARDING	SHELBY
Huber	Huber
Carhart	Carhart
Stout	Stout
Jewett	Jewett
Rottner	Rottner
Duffy	Duffy
Brady	Brady
Peacock	Peacock
Waters	Waters
Evans	Evans
Frazier	Frazier

Loudenville will play at Mt. Gilead Friday afternoon. The Mt. Gilead team shares first honors in the Mid-Gilead league with Madison, neither team having been defeated by league opponents. Last week Mt. Gilead walked over Ashley for a 35 to 14 victory and the previous week the Mt. Gilead grid-ders won from Danville 33 to 13.

The two undefeated teams in the Mid-State league, Madison and Mt. Gilead, will meet in what probably will be the deciding game of the season, when they play at Mt. Gilead Nov. 15.

When North Baltimore journeys to play Forest Hill Friday, the latter team will be playing the final game of its season. Forest fell to defeat before the strong Upper Sandusky club last week by a 6 to 0 score and the previous week tied 6 to 6 with LaRue.

The last football game of the season for Crestline High school will be played Saturday when the team goes to Fostoria for a game with St. Wendelin High. Crestline last week registered a 19 to 0 victory over Carey and the week before won from Norwalk 12 to 6.

Upper Sandusky High plays at Carey Nov. 11 in the final season game for both teams. Carey bowed to the Crestline aggregation last week by a 19 to 0 count and Upper won from Forest 6 to 0.

Marysville High has two games remaining on its schedule. This week the Marysville grid-ders are idle but on Nov. 11 will entertain Bellefontaine High. The final game for the Marysville team will be played Nov. 15 when it travels to Mechanicsburg.

The Kenton High school "Wildcats" concluded its season of play at Wapakoneta Nov. 1, in a game which ended in a 7-7 deadlock. Kenton, although tied in three games, was unbeaten during the 1936 season. The Kenton team scored victories over Bellefontaine, Marysville, Ada and Forest. The three tie games were with Wapakoneta, Van Wert and Urbana.

BOHYER READY NEXT WEEK FOR OFFICIAL BASKETBALL CALL

First Game of Season With Upper Sandusky Set for Dec. 6.

Prospective candidates for positions on the Harding High basketball team have been going through preliminary workouts during the last week, under the direction of Coach D. N. Bohyer.

Although no official call for players has been issued, lettermen and others who are taking their training seriously, have been attending workouts now being held in the Harding High gymnasium.

Coach Bohyer is reluctant to make any pre-season comment. Three 1934 lettermen were lost by graduation last year. They are James Woods, Harry Winters and Don Cressap.

With the 1935-36 season officially opened early in December, the formal call for prospective players probably will be made early next week. Several members of the varsity squad last year are playing football this season and will be unable to participate in the practice sessions until after the final football game with Bucyrus, Nov. 16.

Dec. 6 will mark the opening of the season for the Harding High basketball team. On that date it is scheduled to play Upper Sandusky.

County Schools Hold Basketball Clinic for 100

One of the first basketball clinics of the fall season was held at Claridon school last night under the direction of B. A. Moore, chairman of the athletic committee of the Marion County Basketball association.

Nearly 100 persons from Marion county, including players, coaches, school principals, and officials attended the clinic which was arranged to offer an interpretation of the 1935-36 basketball rules.

Francis W. Bacon of Marion, widely known in Ohio collegiate sports circles, explained and gave visual demonstrations of the present basketball regulations. Each of the 12 county schools had two student representatives at the meeting to take part in the demonstration.

Discussions for both boys and girls games were discussed during the program.

"SAD SAM" JONES DROPPED BY SOX

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—"Sad Sam" Jones had a reason to be sad today.

The veteran right handed pitcher, oldest active in the major leagues at the age of 43, was given his outright release by the Chicago White Sox. Unless he obtains employment with another major league club next season, his great record of 22 years of successive service in the American League will be broken.

"The Strange Case of Ted Key" Remains An Unsolved Mystery

U. C. L. A. Coach Reiterates Disputed Player Is Not Eligible.

By The Associated Press
AMARILLO, Tex., Nov. 7.—Football's aerial mystery story—"the strange case of Ted Key"—was as baffling today as the famous question "how old is Ann?"

However, Dean Earl Miller, sleuth for the University of California at Los Angeles, solved the mystery insofar as his football team is concerned with the suspect analysis.

"I believe as I did last Saturday that our Ted Key is ineligible for football."

Meanwhile R. E. (Honest) I'm Ted Key remained out of sight on the U. C. L. A. campus. Friends said he was tired of answering questions as to whether he is "Honest Ted" or a cousin, Clois (stabbed in the back) Key, who used to play a stellar game for the Texas School of Mines. Whereabouts of Clois Key was a mystery.

The U. C. L. A. fullback stands a good chance of losing his shirt, temporarily, whenever he does reappear in public. Football fans want a look at his back. The son of the U. C. L. A. coach who played prep school football with Key in Santa Monica in 1922 said he recalled seeing scars on Key's back. He said Key told him the injuries were received in Texas.

Dean Miller, who ordered Key benched last Saturday before the California game, said he was convinced the U. C. L. A. fullback had entered under an assumed name or had used another's high school credentials.

K. T. "TED" KEY

"Either would make him ineligible under the Pacific Coast conference rules," Miller added.

After inspecting photos of the disputed player, R. E. Vaughn, Panhandle, Tex., school superintendent, told Dean Miller that he was Clois Key, who he coached at Vernon, Tex., in 1922.

He said Clois Key did not attend Panhandle High, from which the U. C. L. A. player presented credentials.

AFTER BILLIARD TITLE

By The Associated Press
CHICAGO, Nov. 7.—In a setting of top hats, armless coats, and bolted shirts that swished the game out of the old pool hall environment, Johnny Layton, the ex-captain of Sedalia, Mo., was on his way today to acquire his twelfth world's three-cushion billiard championship.

"BABY" PLANE APPEARS

England has a new "baby" airplane. It is a light two-man monoplane in which the pilot and passenger sit side by side in a cabin similar to that of a small coupe automobile. The top speed will be 85 miles an hour, and the price will be about $2,000.

West Virginia Wesleyan, which annually plays some Ohio football eleven, has a "family" pass combination this season. Len Barnum, the big triple threat fullback, and Clyde (Bud) Barker, form it. Barnum married Barker's sister.
